

CHILD THERAPIST Provide Hope and Healing

As a CVIC Child Therapist, you will hear words like: “He has found a safe place to talk.” “You guys are life changing.” When children and adolescents are impacted by domestic or dating violence, sexual abuse/assault, child abuse/neglect or bullying, the Community Violence Intervention Center (CVIC) is the first place many find hope and healing.

We are expanding our team of two Child Therapists. If you’re a therapist with a desire to provide a supportive environment and effective therapy for children and youth who have experienced trauma, apply to join our team. We need you to apply creative, engaging, and innovative techniques to meet the varied needs of the clients we serve. You’ll receive support and training as part of a dynamic, nationally-recognized violence intervention team that values your unique experiences and expertise and new ideas to improve programming to better serve clients.

You’ll be surrounded by a staff of outgoing, compassionate, and kind-hearted coworkers who appreciate CVIC’s culture that prioritizes a healthy work-life balance. You’ll be encouraged to adjust your work schedule to fit your life while meeting the needs of your clients.
